It's smart to imitate the nature's smart solutions

It's called biomimetics and has led OrganoClick, the company behind the OrganoTex® brand, to become a world-leading green chemicals company. By imitating nature's own solutions, materials such as wood, textiles and paper can be given new properties. Our products can replace many of the environmentally destructive chemicals and fossil-based plastics currently used in the functional materials industry.

About OrganoTex® DWR

Many textile impregnations are currently based on fluorocarbons (e.g., PFAS, PFC, etc) and other chemicals that may be hormone disruptive and non-degradable. OrganoTex® is a readily biodegradable (OECD301A) and PFAS free water-repellent technology for textiles which has been developed with inspiration from the nature, like the water repellent properties of the Lotus flower. We supply products both for consumers after care as spray-on or wash-in product, and for industrial use as a durable water repellent (DWR) treatment.

- The water-repellent fatty polymers connect deeply to the fibers
- Maintains the fabrics hands feel, breathability, color and structure.
- Perform 100% initial and 80% after 20 Washes on PES and PA.

MADE GREEN INSIDE by OrganoClick a Swedish green technology company with ISO14001 and ISO9001 standard.
